

DECLARATION

“Smear campaign by ex-employees”

This declaration is being made as a formal notification on behalf of Go Logo Now (“Company”). The Company has been engaged in great business in the industry for years, with an untethered reputation throughout the years.

About 4 months ago, the Company had terminated a group of employees from the Company due to reasons of fraud, misrepresentation, financial mishandling, and breach of security, among other reasons. The Company has been frequently receiving damaging and untrue reviews on many online platforms, including Google Search Engine, as well as certain other platforms such as Trustpilot, SiteJabber, etc. However, the reviews appeared to be posted by people purporting to be Company’s clients, when the Company does not have them as client(s). Upon detailed investigation, the Company discovered that such reviews are a part of an elaborate smear campaign run by the above-mentioned disgruntled ex-employees.

The said ex-employees have been repeatedly posting reviews under one name or another and, as such, it has become quite impossible for the Company to report such concocted and baseless reviews posted by disgruntled employees with a calculated view to defame, damage and tarnish the reputation and business of the Company.

The above is brought to the kind attention in order to protect you from any and all attempts of deceit by any delinquent ex-employees. As such, kindly also note that any communication purported to be on behalf of the Company, if not received from the Company’s own email addresses, should neither be replied to nor be entertained as the same do not represent the Company and would risk you entirely at your own cost.

Thank you!
